Hear our chorus gladly soaring
 Ringing through the air.
Listen to the students' praises
 Alma Mater—fair!

R.P.I., our Alma Mater,
 Blessings on your name.
Students, stand to toast our college—
 Here's to future fame.

Tested knowledge of the ages,
 Alma Mater, give.
Show us how to use our talents,
 Teach us how to live.

IN MEMORIAM

BRYANT LEITH STROTHER

MEMBER OF THE SENIOR CLASS
KILLED...AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT
FEBRUARY 11, 1955

PROVOST HENRY H. HIBBS
A.B., Cumberland College; A.M., Brown University; Ph.D., Columbia University

"To you who have so lately been engaged in completing your education at RPI let me offer my congratulations. You have in no small way contributed to that pride which we mutually share for the educational philosophy of this institution. Each one of you has had a large part in re-affirming my belief that RPI holds a distinct and generous share not only in the future of the South, but of other sections of the country as well. While your program here has been primarily vocational or professional, you have, no doubt, come to realize that no limitations have been placed on your individual cultural aspirations. By tempering a solid core of professional training with elected cultural subjects you have participated in an experience whose benefits will increase with each year. In parting, may I add that it has been a privilege to have had a hand in furthering your education. Now as you go out to serve your state and nation let my best wishes go with you."

H. H. HIBBS, Dean

THE DEANS

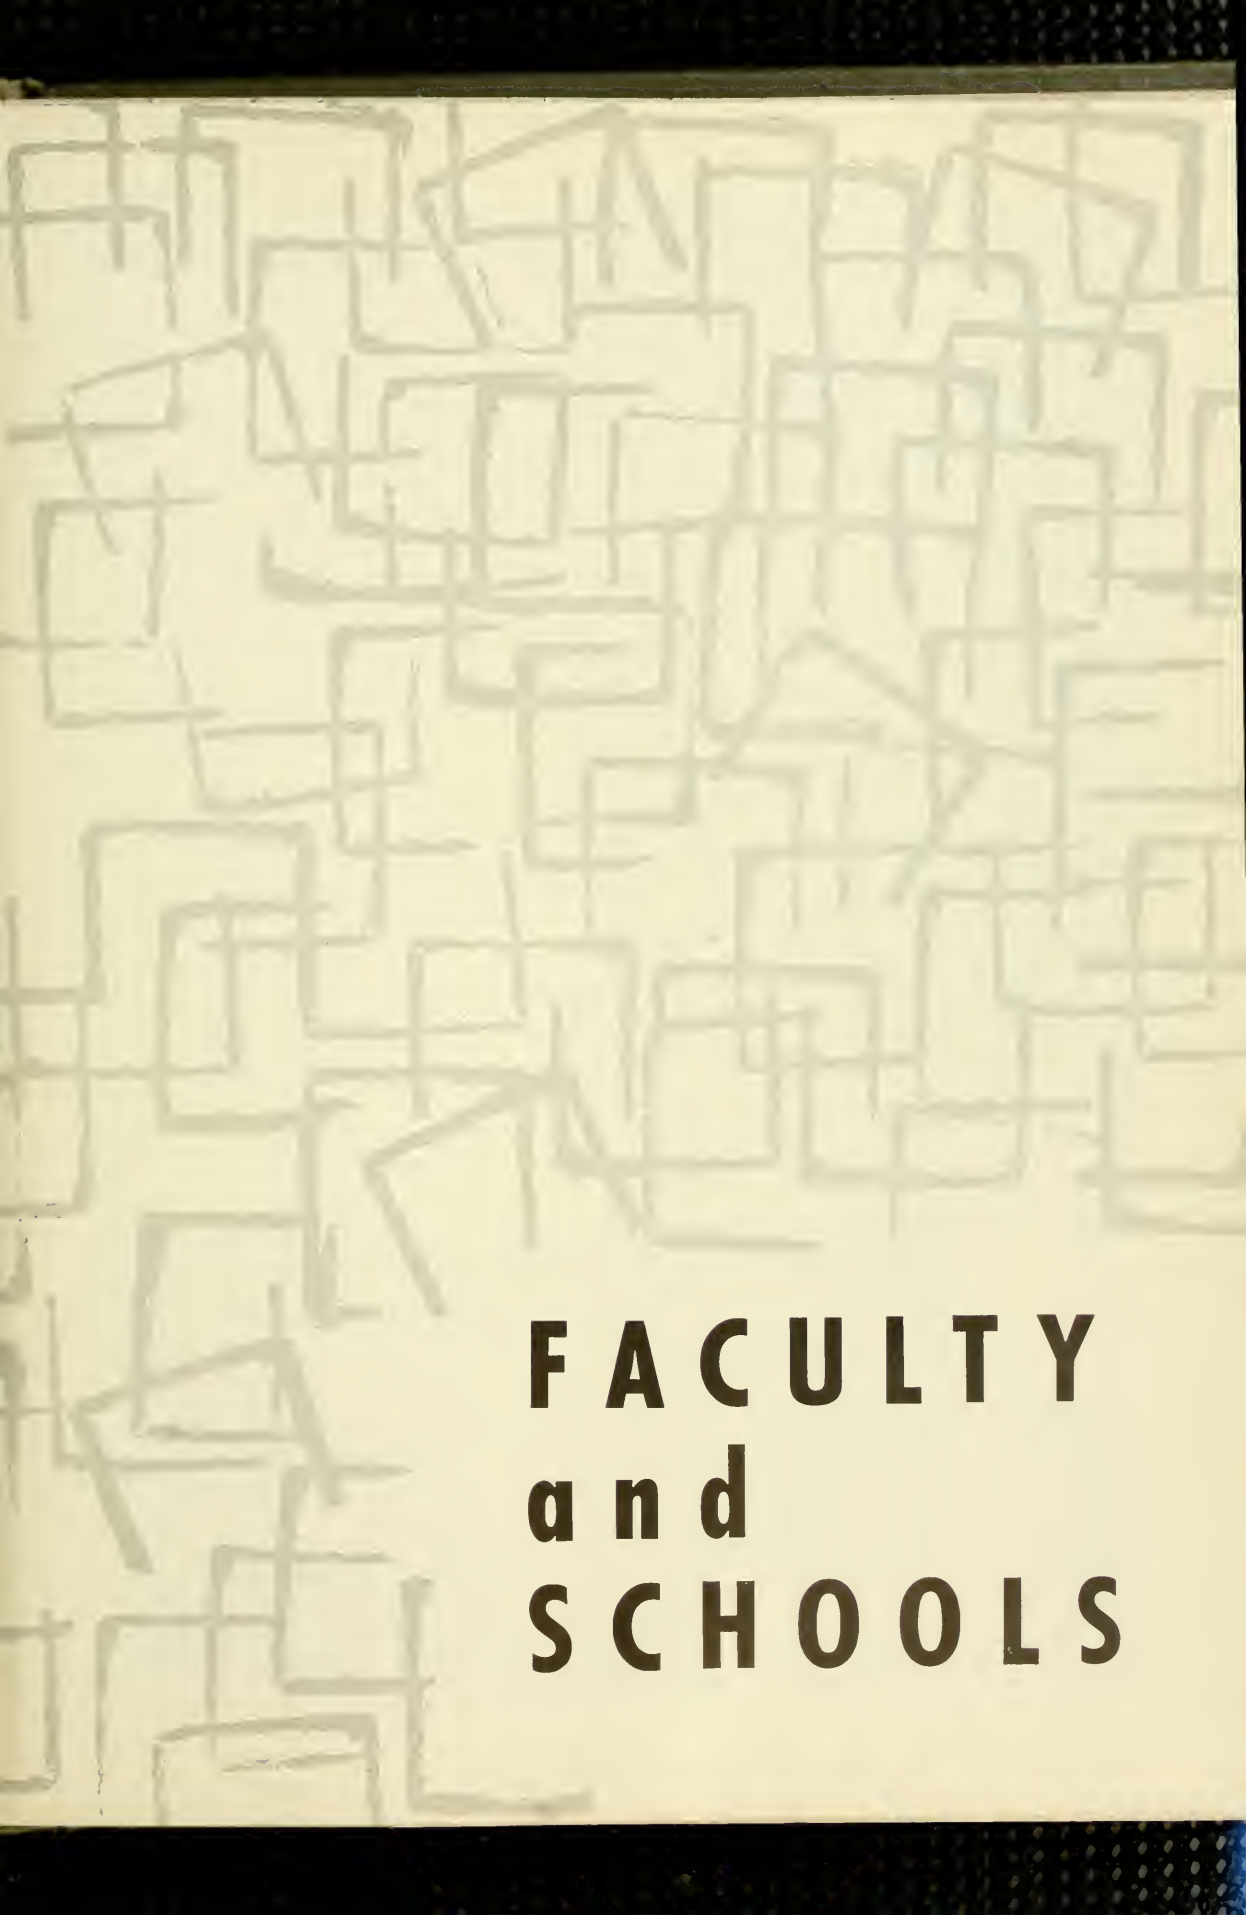

Upon the shoulders of these people rest the complex problems of co-ordinating the many complex and diversified elements of this "unique institution." Dean Westover has the responsibility of seeing that a high degree of instruction is maintained, plus organizing the Summer School program and directing the men's housing arrangements. The nature of Dean Johnson's work is of a more personal sort, for it is to her that all the students go with their problems. She is the intermediary among faculty, students, and administration.

CONVOCAION

Coloring the whole fabric of RPI life, this school and its subdivisions affects the college career of every student . . .

English classes . . . teaching the practical application of our native tongue . . . instilling us with an appreciation of great literature, old and new.

Modern languages . . . increasing our knowledge and understanding of other cultures.

Journalism . . . bringing journalistic theory into the realms of reality giving talented students an opportunity to develop their creative ability.

SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM, WRITING AND PUBLICATION

ENGINEERING

RPI's engineering course is offered in cooperation with and under the direction of Virginia Polytechnic Institute. This department offers junior college courses for the purpose of preparing students who have completed two years of work in standard courses or three years of work in cooperative programs to graduate at V.P.I. in Blacksburg. Also it prepares students who can attend college only one or two years for employment in engineering or drafting on the technicians' levels.

classes

Our yesterdays follow us; they constitute our life, and they give character and force and meaning to our present deeds.

—JOSEPH PARKER

AWAITING THE PROCESSIONAL

The time has come . . . we've reached that final goal . . . it's hard to realize that four years ago we were just planning our college careers. Four years, a relatively long span of time and yet . . . the first few weeks passed in a blur of excitement, a world of unknown faces, new names and strange surroundings . . . then the kaleidoscope stopped whirling and we began adjusting to the pattern.

We experienced the joy of new friendships and successfully met unaccustomed situations . . . we had our first taste of intellectual curiosity, and suddenly a whole new universe opened to us . . . we gained a perspective unknown to us before and learned how to conform without surrendering our own individuality.

Looking back we can lightly pass over the moments of disappointment and frustration. Instead, our minds dwell on the joys of college activities and most of all, the endless chain of friendships that tie all our experiences together, making them into something meaningful and worthwhile. Now the long awaited day of graduation has come. After four years of college we realize how infinite the field of knowledge is, and how much we have yet to learn. Thus we pass with hope from the old into the new.

Adding a touch of color to the somber robes and dignified processions of convocations, the Junior Marshals with their tri-colored sashes have become a tradition at RPI. Selected by the Seniors, these members of the Junior Class guide the academic processions at assemblies and graduation exercises. They lend that extra dash of ceremony that is so important at official college functions.

What's nicer than being a Junior in college? With another year of campus activities to anticipate, the Juniors know that they are not nearing the end of their college days as the Seniors are. Their gain in poise and self-confidence adds to their enthusiasm and produces some of the college's outstanding leaders.

The Juniors have a great time during Rat Week. With the memory of their freshman days faded conveniently into the background, they enjoy pestering the newcomers in Rat Court. Then to show that they are basically kind at heart, each member of the Junior Class adopts a little brother or sister to guide over the rocky path of those first weeks in college. One of the highlights of a Junior's year is the SGA Midwinter Dances featuring the Junior Class ring figure.

While changing from an old Junior to a new Senior, every member of the class can look back and say that it's truly been a grand year.

The Sophomores are at the halfway point, two years down and two to go. They've been in college long enough to know the ropes but not long enough to dim the glamor of collegiate life. To a Sophomore everyday is a new experience.

Members of this class have made their presence felt in all areas of college activities, including their sponsoring of the Rat Dance. They've joined hands with the long line of students who throughout the years have upheld the traditions that make college life what it is today. This hard working class has much to look forward to as its members eagerly pass on to bigger and better achievements.

LOUDER!

The Freshman Class is one of the most important parts of a student group. The lively "rats" have a leavening effect on members of other classes whose routine might otherwise have become dull and stereotyped. The Freshmen form a college's reservoir of future leaders—the sophomore, juniors, and seniors of tomorrow.

Although at first bewildered by unfamiliar rules and mountains of text books, the freshmen's good nature—demonstrated so well during the tribulations of Rat Week—and their eager spirit of cooperation have quickly made them an integral part of the college scene. Taking hold of collegiate life with zestful enthusiasm, the Frosh have advanced with amazing assurance.

GRADUATE STUDENTS

CLINICAL AND APPLIED PSYCHOLOGY

Two programs of graduate work are offered at R.P.I.—Graduate Psychology and Graduate Social Work. Both of these programs lead to Masters of Science degrees in their respective fields.

Our School of Social Work has the distinction of being the oldest school of its kind in the South and the first school established at R.P.I. Its founding dates back to 1917. Its major offering is a program of education designed to meet the training requirements of those interested in social work as a career. Field work gives the student an opportunity to develop techniques and skills in the handling of industrial problems and training for practical situations in private and public social agencies.

The Graduate Psychology Department is relatively new. First organized in 1942, and fully established in 1952 as a separate instructional division, this department prepares students for the Psychology profession. It also presents psychological information to other students to help them professionally. The department provides services to aid students in vocational and personal problems and conducts research projects in cooperation with state and local agencies.

DAY STUDENTS' LEAGUE

Formed in 1952 for the purpose of giving the large number of students who reside at home a voice in student government, the Day Students' League is one of RPI's more active organizations. In the informal atmosphere of the Slop Shop, members of this group study, play bridge and talk over the episodes of the day. The DSL, with its annual Slop Shop party and picnic, plays an important role in the social life of the college.

LEE HOUSE

A "Degas" and a grand piano reflect the variety of features which prompt residents of Lee House to speak of their dorm as "homey". A TV set situated in a beautiful mahogany and lime room introduces a modern atmosphere. It is said that the most beautiful girls appear at Lee House—their set is always on.

SHAFER HOUSE

Those informal get togethers after hours create a feeling of fellowship throughout the dormitory. Freshmen are made to feel at home by pajama parties by which they became acquainted with the older residents. Midnight parties and long bridge sessions will be lasting memories for the girls at Shafer House.

Moore House is a center for all of RPI's athletes—it houses the ping-pong table. It is also the meeting place for the various RPI clubs. The girls, twenty of them, feel that their small number has given each of them a cozier feeling for dorm life.

Some of the most enjoyable parties on campus were sponsored at the 712 dorm this year. The first party was given on December 17, and served the "spirit" of Christmas. The latest party was held on March 5th when the arrival of spring brought to life D. D. Dooley, the patron saint of 712. Dooley rose from his coffin to rule over the greatest celebration of them all. A gala evening, including both refreshments and entertainment, was ended by the departure of Mr. Dooley. The men hope to make this an annual event.

S. G. A.

Democracy is the keystone of our collegiate way of life here at the Richmond Professional Institute. Through the Student Government Association each student has a voice in the administration of college activities. By cooperation and individual initiative, the chosen representatives of the student body serve as mediator between student and administrative levels in all areas of school life.

Through work in the SGA each member acquires practical knowledge of the ways a democracy should function. Participating in student government activities builds poise and self-confidence in each individual; also it develops a healthy respect for the rights and opinions of others. Student democracy has the important task of molding the character and abilities of persons who will someday have a part in the mighty job of running a nation.

The Student Government Association is composed of representatives of each class, organization, and dormitory on the campus, besides four officers who are elected after a period of petitioning and campaigning each spring. President Bill O'Connell presides over weekly meetings during which motions are introduced by the Executive Council or by members. Under the jurisdiction of the SGA are the Executive Committee, Honor Council, Elections Committee, Inter-Dorm Council and the dormitory presidents, whose meeting is presided over by Vice President Peggy Fowler. Also playing vital roles in the functioning of the SGA are Sandra Shumate, Secretary; and Harry Shuma'e, Treasurer.

RPI, while maintaining the traditions of student government handed down through the years, has added its own unique flavor to this student democracy. At few institutions of higher learning have such friendly relations been established between faculty and students; and at few schools do such diverse types of students mingle with fellowship and understanding in a collegiate atmosphere. Thus through the democratic spirit of individual students and through the binding force of the Student Government Association, RPI truly represents democracy at work.

Functioning like a miniature President's Cabinet, the Executive Committee serves in an advisory capacity to the Student Government Association. In weekly meetings held before the regular SGA sessions, the four class presidents, the SGA officers, and the Dean of Students lay the ground work upon which the SGA builds. The committee maps out the projects and discusses the proposals and resolutions that will be presented to the entire legislative body. Planning the Opening, Mid-Winter and May Dances, and screening applicants for the SGA scholarship are among the legislative duties of this group.

Based on the idea that honor is inherent in every man, the Honor Code finds its enforcement in the integrity of each individual. The purpose of the Honor Council is to protect the rights of the individual and to mete out justice in cases where infractions of the Honor Code occur.

ART STUDENTS' LEAGUE

The Art Students' League was established for the purpose of sponsoring co-operative activities among the various art departments at R.P.I. Some of these activities are traditional affairs, and are looked forward to and enjoyed by all of the R.P.I. students. The "Mardi Gras" and Variety Show are two such traditional affairs. This year the "Mardi Gras" was held at the Mosque and provided an enjoyable setting for their indomitable artistic spirit.

The multicolored splashes of paint, the texture of leather and the space and form of stone combine in a synthesis that symbolizes the ideals of the Fine Arts Club. This group unites the common interests of the art education, crafts and fine arts majors. The organization's varied activities include lectures, films, dinner meetings, and the annual auction of students' artistic labors. The proceeds of this sale are used for a scholarship given by the group to some worthy art major.

FINE ARTS

Combining paint and cloth, line and color, the members of the Interior Design Club will someday plan the houses of tomorrow. With the aid of scale models, sketches and samples of material they attempt to give their class room theory the test of practical application. Lectures about subjects helpful to the interior designer and field trips are part of this club's contribution to the professional interest and knowledge of its members.

Acknowledging the religious aspect of each Baptist student's life, the Baptist Student Union provides an atmosphere of spiritual understanding and fellowship. The Episcopalian students of R.P.I. form the Canterbury Club. Each Sunday night the members of the Canterbury Club gather together for supper. The meeting is then continued with a discussion of the various themes in the Bible. The members feel that these discussions have helped them gain new insight into themselves, and into their religion.

Emphasizing religious loyalty and knowledge of the church, the Newman Club guides the Catholic student in strengthening the bonds between religion and education. The semimonthly meetings feature talks by eminent Catholic scholars in all fields of learning. This year the club's social activities included: a dance, a picnic, and a tour of the Cathedral.

Tying classroom theory and storeroom practice into a meaningful whole, the Distributors' Club aims to advance its members in all areas of life. Weekly promotional displays in the halls of the Administration Building, group projects in retailing and merchandising, parties and speakers, integrate the social and vocational life of the club's members.

The first college chapter to be organized in Virginia, the RPI Future Business Leaders of America has dedicated itself to the furthering of interest in the national organization by means of meetings with high school clubs and establishing new chapters. Some of the chapter's projects and activities have been: the publishing of a student directory, the conducting of community surveys, and the offering of educational films and speakers at the meetings. One of the highlights of the chapter has been an annual excursion to New York City.

The FTA is one of our most recently organized clubs. It was founded for the purpose of acquainting students with the proper professional attitude and to assist them in realizing their position and responsibility as "future teachers." As a means toward this end, the club has sponsored field trips to educational institutions where the students could become familiar with the most modern educative methods.

By means of social activities, the Cotillion Club attempts to bring all the college's women students into a closer friendship and understanding. Established in 1930, the Cotillion Club is R.P.I.'s oldest organization and is the only women's social club on campus. Besides offering the fun of parties, bridge games, and picnics, it strives to meet the varied interests of its members by sponsoring cultural programs and civic projects. Highlighting the year's activities are the Cotillion's annual fall and spring formals.

COACH ALLEN GIVES THE TEAM A FEW HELPFUL HINTS BEFORE A BIG GAME

February 1955: there's a month Coach Allen, and the rest of the Green Devils of R.P.I. would like to forget. For when the second month of the year made its appearance the Big Green cagers boasted a winning record, and prospects for completing the first winning in the school's history.

But, the shortest month of the year had something to say about that! The Devils dropped their last 7 basketball games of the 1954-55 cage campaign, and all of them in the 28 days of February.

This disastrous month plunged the Devils' final record to a won 7 lost 13 mark. Not the winning season that once had been hoped for, but one of the most successful, percentage wise, in R.P.I.'s history.

SOME FAST ACTION

ED PEEPLES IN ACTION

Even though it ended on a dismal note, the 1954-55 basketball season had its thrills and bright spots for the Green Devils. The season started on a happy note with the Devils trimming the Alumni in a non-scheduled practice game 86-45, then dropping MCV 94-77 in the season's opener. And despite the season's ending with a seven game losing streak there was some triumph. The Green Devils placed two men, Co-captains Bill Marshall and Jim Ward on the All-Little Seven Team. Ward nailed down a first string berth for the second straight year while Marshall received honorable mention.

Easily the high spot of the season was the night of December 3rd in Ashland. In their second outing of the season the Green Devils edged the Yellow Jackets of Randolph-Macon 78-77 in the Jacket's nest.

TWO POINTS FOR THE "GREEN DEVILS"

Next came the Devils' first defeat, and it was four games before they were able to again taste the sweetness of victory. It all started on a two day jaunt to the western part of the state. Roanoke laid it on our boys first 93-56, and the next night Lynchburg's Hornets out-lasted and out-scored the Green Devils 107-100.

Two more defeats, one at the hand of Bridgewater and the other from the Newport News Apprentice School rounded out the 1954 part of the campaign. The Devils came back from Christmas vacation ready to go. In their first outing of the new year they knocked off Norfolk Division 84-80; then they threw quite a scare into the Keydets of VMI before bowing to the school's second Big Six foe 87-64.

GO, KATZ!

"SHOOT! "CRIES THE CROWD,

"I HAVE IT."

The Devils came back from Lexington to hand MCV another defeat 74-62. Then they toppled UTS 86-61. Lynchburg again took the Big Green's measure 68-65, but the Devils rebounded in grand style to play one of their better ball games as they handed Shenandoah College its first defeat of the season 57-49. After that it was UTS again and another Big Green victory.

But there the door to victory shut. Shenandoah, Hampden Sydney, Roanoke, Bridgewater, Randolph-Macon, the Norfolk Division, and the Newport News Apprentice School all took turns treating the Devils very unkindly.

THE PROSCRIPT

If you should come up to the third floor of the Ad Building any Thursday afternoon, you would find a student journalist in every nook and cranny working diligently at putting out the PROSCRIPT.

Banging on typewriters, chewing on pencils while thoughts jell, counting headlines on their fingers, the twenty-six enthusiasts of the Journalism Department try to make the Wednesday deadline. Putting out a school publication requires more than just a weekly three-hour lab. It requires hunting for persons who cannot be located anywhere on the campus, it requires interviewing persons who do not want to be quoted, it requires all the hundred and one minute details which must be accomplished before dashing down to the printer's with the copy. But somehow or another, everything gets done and the PROSCRIPT comes out, the handiwork of a band of hard working journalism students.

LOOKING INTO THE CAMERA after a busy session are the members of the Journalism Department with Editor-in-Chief Jerry Spiker in center foreground and Adviser Mr. Frank B. Thornburg standing.

Carnival

Amid the sounds of the barkers, the music from the dime-a-dance booth, the screaming heroine pursued by the villain from melodrama, this year's Carnival went off in the grand tradition. Games of chance, a photo-on-the-spot booth and one for caricatures, a slave market, a dada exhibit, a cafe straight from "Paree," and many other attractions combined to make the Art Students' League proud of its efforts. Also, the King and Queen of A.S.L. were elected, not to be announced until Mardi Gras—another event sponsored by the League.

A real occasion at R.P.I. is the annual costume dance. Students sometimes plan weeks in advance for it and come up with some of the most original ideas for costumes imaginable. However, no matter to what extent costumed, everyone is agreed that MARDI GRAS is a highlight of the year.

TO THE READER . . .

I wish to thank all the persons who helped to make this year-book the wonderful experience it has been to me. I feel that when I leave here, an old friend will be left behind. I hope that within these pages there are as many memories for you—the reader, as there are for me—the 1955 WIGWAM Editor-in-Chief.
